

A Hearty Thanks to the AJTCVM Peer Reviewers

The American Journal of Traditional Chinese Veterinary Medicine extends our heartfelt gratitude to our peer reviewers for their invaluable time, insightful critiques, and thoughtful evaluations. Reviewers play a vital role as the backbone of the academic publishing process. Your expertise and dedication are instrumental in upholding the scientific integrity and high standards of this international scientific journal of veterinary acupuncture, Chinese herbal medicine, Tui-na and food therapy. By generously sharing your scientific and clinical expertise, you foster rigorous research and professional excellence across our field and strengthen the quality of every manuscript the AJTCVM publishes. We deeply appreciate your commitment to provide practitioners, students, and researchers with the highest level of peer-reviewed articles advancing animal health and supporting the global veterinary community.

We would like to especially acknowledge the following reviewers for their contributions for the February 2025 and August 2025 issues:
